Goal

Request a quote from OxSteed Direct and look it up later with an email code.

Before you start

1. Know what work you need, where it is, and when you want it.

Process map

- Look up the quote with an email code → Request sent

Text version. 1. Open /direct/request-quote ("Request a Direct quote": "Keep it simple. Tell us what you need, where the work is, and when you want it done."). 2. Fill in your details (First name, Last name, Email, Phone, Company name), describe the work and the timeline, and add a photo when helpful. 3. Submit; the page confirms "Quote request sent." 4. Later, open /direct/view-quote ("View your quote") and verify with the email code to see your quote. Guests can request and look up by code; signing in adds detail views.

Steps

Step 1: Open the Direct quote request page

Open /direct/request-quote (also reachable at /request-quote or /quote-request). The page title is "Request a Direct quote" with the subtitle "Keep it simple. Tell us what you need, where the work is, and when you want it done." Guests can request without an account.

> Expected result: The quote request form loads with contact and job sections.

If something goes wrong

Problem	What to do

The form will not submit.	Complete the required contact fields and check the email and phone formats; the form flags invalid entries. Past dates are rejected.
You cannot open your quote.	Use the exact email from the request and the freshest code; codes expire. Signed-in users can also open /direct/quotes/:id.
